

Payment procedure

In our Confirmation of Instructions, we may require you pay a deposit towards anticipated costs and disbursements. Depending on the size of the deposit, and type of work we are doing for you, your deposit may be held in our James & Wells Lawyers Trust Account and used on account of any fees / disbursements / costs you incur with us.

Payment of the deposit will be noted in your next statement of account. If you require a receipt for a deposit before your statement issues, please let us know.

We may require further deposits from you as the matter progresses. Any unused portion of a deposit will be refunded to you on completion or termination of our services.
